Healing the Hurting Child:

The Necessary Dimensions of Child-Centered Play Therapy

SPEAKER

Dr. Garry L. Landreth, LPC, RPT-S, internationally recognized for his writings and work in promoting the development of child-centered play therapy, is a Regents Professor Emeritus in the Department of Counseling and founder of the Center for Play Therapy at the University of North Texas. Dr. Landreth is a frequent speaker at play therapy conferences around the world. He has published more than 150 journal articles, books and videos.

SCHEDULE

Friday, Oct. 31, 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. (lunch included). Saturday, Nov. 1, 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. (lunch included).

This two-day workshop will focus on the perceptual world of the child, the dynamic elements of the relationship that facilitate the play therapy process, structuring the relationship in the playroom, “reading” themes in children’s play, the four healing messages needed by a child who is hurting, helping children develop self-control and self-responsibility, the ACT model of therapeutic limit setting, the language of facilitating change in children, guidelines for selecting appropriate toys and materials and a conceptual model of the process of change in play therapy. Workshop activities will center around spontaneous demonstrations by Dr. Landreth dealing with specific problems in the play therapy experience, critique of video tapes of Dr. Landreth’s play therapy sessions and the art expressions of Ryan, a child who was dying.
